AMERICANS CRASH INTO BRITTANY

STOLEN TOKYO OCEAN EMPIRE FALLS APART

TINIAN OPPOSITION WIPED OUT; GUAM CONQUEST NEAR

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 1 (AP)—Fast moving marines, winding up a nine-day operation, have erased all organized Japanese opposition in Tinian and an intense bombing of an estimated 10,000 Nipponese on Guam is paving the way for complete conquest of that island.

These developments in the progressive American sweep over the south Marianas were reported tonight by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in two communiques.

Slaughter Exceeds 6,000

The same second and fourth marine divisions which helped in the bloody investment of Saipan wound up Monday, July 31, the drive they began July 23 on the fine air base island of Tinian.

On Guam, as Yank conquerors of the south half straightened their lines with advances of a half to three miles, carrier planes spread death among enemy concentrations in the north part, increasing a Nipponese toll which already exceeds 6,000.

More than 2,500 others have been killed on Tinian. An additional 2,000 are being cut to pieces in the cave and beach area of Marpo point on south Tinian by marines who earlier aided in the slaughter of more than 21,000 Nipponese on Saipan.

The leatherneck sweep down Tinian's 12-mile length, aided by a destructive secret weapon, overran two airfields the Japanese built.

Bombarding Kept Up

On Guam, northbound Yanks occupied four small towns while straightening out their line which extends from a mile north of the captured capital city of Agana on the west coast to Pago Bay on the east.

The fierce bombing and rocket attack plainly indicates the tacticians are doing their utmost by air and sea to prevent as much bloodshed as possible among the American troops when they drive into the rugged northern area.

All of Japan's southwest Pacific empire east of the Philippine-Halmahera line was isolated by a bold move 200 miles westward to Sansapor on the northwestern tip of Dutch New Guinea by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

This amphibious operation, carried out last Sunday without opposition, placed his forces about 600 miles from the Philippines. They were within 200 miles of Halmahera, important enemy air and shipping base.

Surprise Traps Japs

Should the Japanese be unable to hold the lines from the southern end of the Philippines to Halmahera island, a distance of about 350 miles, it would "imperil" all of Japan's conquests south of China, MacArthur said in Tuesday's communique. They would be "in grave danger of flank development."

A spokesman said the surprise landing was "the last operation of the New Guinea campaign." It trapped some 15,000 Nipponese troops in the Mahnokwari area, 150 miles eastward.

In the crumbling Marianas, 1,300 miles northward American soldiers and marines stepped up their invasions as they closed in on the Japanese defenders of Guam and Tinian.

Four futile counterattacks had been made Monday by the remnants of the Tinian garrison, squeezed into the southern tip of

Morrison, Marquette, Republican Nominee For Auditor General

BY G. MILTON KELLY

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 1 (AP)—The Republican state convention today completed the ticket which carry its banners into the November general election campaign.

In the only contest for nomination, the convention named John D. Morrison, of Marquette, as its choice for auditor general.

John R. Dethmers, of Holland, the party's state chairman, was nominated for attorney general, while Secretary of State Herman H. Dignan and State Treasurer D. Hale Brake were renominated, all three of them by acclamation.

It has been many years since the GOP completed its state convention affairs in Michigan with such a demonstration of harmony. With time on their hands, they whooped it for their auditor general favorites, and received from leaders assurances in speeches that victory was within reach in the November election, if only they will work, organize and work some more.

Morrison captured the auditor general nomination in a four-way contest, defeating Charles A. Sparks, of Pontiac, Oakland county treasurer, Lyle B. Austin of Lansing, Ingham county treasurer and Gerald E. Mallory of Blissfield and Lansing, executive secretary of the state land office board.

Morrison polled 865 1-8 votes, Sparks 131, Austin 113 and Mallory 141 1-8. Wayne county cast 284 votes for the winner, 40 for Sparks and one for Mallory, leaving the convention hall to catch a train as Alex J. Polk, a pro-Sparks member of the delegation, demanded a new poll of the delegation because he said he believed

WITNESS CALLS HEMANS A LIAR

Ferndale Solon Insists He Got No Bribe, Then Collapses In Court

Mason, Mich., Aug. 1 (AP)—Rep. George N. Higgins, (Rep) of Ferndale, occupied the spotlight at today's session of the legislative bride conspiracy trial.

Questioned concerning an entry of $200 after his name in a memorandum book kept by Major Charles F. Hemans, confessed bride payer and principal state witness, he shouted "Charlie Hemans is a liar," and a few minutes later he collapsed on the stand. He said he had suffered a heart attack.

He was given medical treatment in the private chambers of Circuit Judge John Simpson.

Higgins, who is not a defendant in the trial, came here from the Republican state convention at Grand Rapids, in response to summons by Attorney James E. Hancock. Detroit branch manager of the Associates Discount Corporation.

Higgins testified that he was interested in finance legislation proposed in 1939 because the laws proposed in 1939 vitally affected the financing of automobile purchases. Higgins is an automobile dealer.

RUSSIANS CUT ALL ROADS TO EAST PRUSSIA

KAUNAS CAPTURED; ARMIES DRIVE TO BALTIC SEA

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Wednesday, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Russian First Baltic army drove to the Baltic sea yesterday, isolating two German armies in Estonia and Latvia, while two other powerful Soviet army groups captured Kaunas, prewar capital of Lithuania, and closed a steel arc of siege around burning Warsaw.

The trap in the Baltic was being closed by Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's men, who seized Tukums, rail center nine miles south of the Gulf of Riga and 30 miles almost due west of the city of Riga. Six other railway stations were among more than 100 taken in that drive, the Soviet midnight communique announced, describing the threat of German catastrophe in a single sentence:

"Thus our troops have cut all roads leading from the Baltic to East Prussia."

Warsaw Doomed

How many Germans remain there is uncertain, but their numbers are believed to be large, as both the 16th and 18th armies, once totalling 350,000 men, were assigned to the Estonian-Latvian defense and gave no indications of pulling out even as the escape route narrowed daily.

The Germans claimed they had driven Bagramian's forces back in the Siauliai area so that 12 miles separated them from those thrusting to the Gulf of Riga, but even if true, this was a minor success offering small promise of saving the German armies to the north.

The Russian communique, broadcast from Moscow and recorded in London by the Soviet Monitor, reiterated Premier Stalin's earlier order of the day announcing that Kaunas had been taken by storm by Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's third White Russian army, and told of continuing progress on all the northern sectors of the 800-mile front.

Poles Aid Offensive

Very soon, it seemed, the victory salutes would be for Warsaw, where Marshal Konstantine K. Rokossovsky's troops were fighting tonight less than six miles away, closing in on it in a great steel arc so near that their heavy guns were firing into German strongpoints inside the city over open sites.

Elsewhere, too, the Soviet drive progressed formidably. The

TURKEY NEARS CRISIS IN WAR

Relations With Germany To Be Severed; Balkan Blowup Expected

BY ALEX SINGLETON

London, Aug. 1 (AP)—Turkey tonight solemnly approached an apparently imminent rupture of her relations with Germany, gambling at last on the chance that the Nazis are shackled sufficiently by European developments to prevent full-fledged reprisals and hoping to win cheaply a place at the peace tables.

Turkish action, irrevocably widening a breach caused three month sago by halting shipments of steel-hardening chrome to the Axis, was expected within the next 36 hours.

The decision is generally expected to come at the Wednesday meeting of the Grand National assembly, when the obedient People's party deputies will approve the course of action set by President Ismet Inonu and Prime Minister Sugru Saracoglu.

A clean Turkish break with the Axis probably would provide the powder for a general blow-off in the Balkans, where the Nazis have been forced to use vitally needed troops to force continued allegiance from their war-weary satellites.

Besieged Hengyang Still Holding Out Against Nipponese

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced officially tonight that "an enemy advance" was stopped by "troops of our inner ring" at besieged and encircled Hengyang.

Planes of the Chinese-American composite wing bombed the Japanese-held airfield on the outskirts of the besieged Canton-Hankow railway city and further north strafed the enemy all along the front from Siangton to Hengyang, a communique said.

On the Yunnan province front the Japanese made two desperate attempts to break out of the ring of encirclement around their main base at Tengchung during the night of July 29, a bulletin said, and were repulsed with heavy casualties.

Peace Government Formed In Finland

BY EDWIN SHANKE

Stockholm, Aug. 1. (AP)—Aged Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim, commander-in-chief of Finland's armed forces, tonight accepted parliament's call to the presidency succeeding Risto Ryti and opening the way for formation of a "peace government."

Thus again as after World War I, the Finns turned to their number one soldier to save the country.

The Finnish parliament met five times during the day in the face of the crisis resulting from the Russian advance to the Baltic which threatens to cut Finland off from her ally, Germany.

Ryti's resignation in effect cancels his pact with Germany in which he promised Finland would not make a separate peace, as the pact depended solely on Ryti's signature because parliament was not consulted.

Ryti, in his letter of resignation, dated Aug. 1, said civil and military powers ought to be concentrated in one person because of "the hard and dangerous conditions" in which Finland finds itself. Secondly, he said, his health had been affected.

Mannerheim took over the presidency after parliament had adopted a special decree legalizing his succession without an election, official announcements in Helsinki stated.

The maneuver recalled the French switch from Premier Paul Reynaud to Marshal Petain, who promptly surrendered France to the Germans in 1940. In this case Finland may reorganize her government as an essential preliminary to a peace with Russia.

The 77-year-old Mannerheim, who heretofore has declined to assume political responsibility in Finland, preferring to confine his authority to the military, was reported tonight to have declared upon being asked whether he would take the presidency:

"I am prepared to place myself at the disposal of the country in her difficult hour."

AIRDROMES HIT SOUTH OF PARIS

Bombers Help To Keep Enemy Off Balance Behind Lines

BY NEDVILLE NORDNESS

London, Aug. 1 (AP)—A force of nearly 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators, accompanied by an unusually large escort of nearly 1,000 fighters, delivered a heavy attack today on three enemy airfields south of Paris in support of the Allied ground offensive in Normandy and Brittany and also attacked robot bases in northern France.

The heavies bombed visually airdromes at Chateaudin, 75 miles southwest of Paris, at Brecy near Orleans, 70 miles southwest of the capital, and at Melun, 40 miles southeast, along with a variety of other military targets throughout central France and in the Paris area.

Ten heavy bombers and four fighters were reported missing from all the operations. Seven enemy planes were destroyed.

The large fighter force may have been sent out as an added protection against the new rocket-propelled fighters the Germans have put into the air.

The Allied command was throwing the great bulk of its aerial weight from the front to the immediate rear of the German lines in an attempt to keep the enemy off balance, disorganize the movement of reinforcements and block off means of escape from the advancing Allied forces.

The attack by the American heavies followed the blasting of at least a dozen railway bridges and number of fuel dumps behind the battle area last night by Marauder and Havoc bombers, and almost 24 hours of operations over the front lines by fighter bombers.

Philadelphia Strike In Transportation Crimps War Output

Philadelphia, Aug. 1 (AP)—Trolley, bus and subway employes listened to army and navy pleas in silence today; then booed down their own union officers begging them to end a sudden work stoppage that shut down Philadelphia's public transportation system, which normally carries 1,500,000 riders daily.

Every vehicle of the Philadelphia Transportation company except trolleys on four minor lines in Delaware county outside the city was at a standstill, and army and navy officers declared that war production was being retarded seriously in the vast Philadelphia-Camden arsenal area.

The Transport Workers Union (CIO) contended that the tie-up was instigated by enemy agents with the aim of inciting race riots and stalling war production, while the company claimed the men were protesting the hiring of negro operators.

Race Fights Flare In Traffic Tie-Up; Bottles Are Hurled

Philadelphia, Aug. 1 (AP)—Negroes and White men fought tonight in a flareup of race disorder in the wake of a complete tie-up of Philadelphia's public transportation system, and as the night wore on police cars raced almost continuously from one disturbance to another.

One seven-block section north of the central city area was covered with broken glass from milk bottles hurled at autos and police cars, and store and house windows were broken in many sectors of north and south Philadelphia.

The first disturbance occurred in the Ridge Avenue section, northwest of the center of the city.

SOMEWHERE IN NORMANDY (by wireless)—We drove slowly across the two pastures in the big M-19 retriever truck with which our ordnance evacuation company was to pick up two crippled German tanks. The wrecker truck followed us. It was just after midnight.

Pyle

We came to a lane at the far side of the pasture. Nobody was there to direct us. The officers had gone on ahead. We asked a sentry if he knew where the German tanks were. He had never heard of them. We shut off the motors and waited.

I think everybody was a little on edge. We certainly had American troops ahead of us, but we didn't know how far. When things are tense like that you get impatient of monkeying around. You want to get the job done and get the hell out of there.

We waited about 10 minutes, and finally a sergeant came back and said for us to drive on up the road about half a mile. He climbed on to direct us. Finally we came to a barnyard, pulled in, turned around and then very slowly backed on up the road toward the enemy lines. I stood on the steel platform behind the driver so I could see.

It was very dark and you could only make out vague shapes. You could see dark walls of hedges and between them lighter strips of gravel road. Finally a huge black shape took form at one side of the road. It was the first of the German tanks. Just before we got to it we could make out two dark stripes on either side of the road on the ground. They were the size and shape of dead men.

ROBOTS LET UP IN LONDON AREA

Launching Sites Knocked Out Between Calais And Cap Gris Nez

BY A. I. GOLDGERG

London, Aug. 1 (AP)—England had a comparative lull in robot bomb attacks today, with at least two flying-bomb launching sites apparently knocked out of commission between Calais and Cap Gris Nez.

The unmanned missiles again sent coastal anti-aircraft guns into action, but only a few reached southern England, including the London area. The German tactics of sending salvos or clusters to reach the channel coast simultaneously appeared in abeyance.

In the house of commons Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, announced that standard horn warning blasts would be instituted to give "imminent danger" signals when a flying bomb was nearby. These will supplant sirens which give general warnings over large areas.

Without being too explicit, Morrison confirmed that some bombs were striking without the throbbing roar that heralded the approach of early robots. He even told commons he knew "about a lot of horrible things" in connection with the pilotless planes, but gave no further details.

Determined Stand Made At Florence By German Troops

BY NOLAND NORGAARD

Rome, Aug. 1 (AP)—Five German divisions drawn in a tight arc south and southwest of Florence lashed back bitterly today at Eighth army forces punching their way methodically toward the great art capital through a succession of enemy strongpoints.

(A broadcast by DNB German news agency heard by the British ministry of information in London declared that German forces had evacuated Pisa to American troops "to save the city's art treasurers." There was no confirmation of the enemy report from any other source.)

"It is clear the enemy is determined to make a real stand as long as he is able," an Allied spokesman said. The Nazis, having declared Florence an open city, are expected to withdraw without a street fight once their last defenses south of the Arno River are plowed under.

FORMER LEIPZIG LEADER HUNTED

Nazis Offer $400,000 To Capture Plotter Against Hitler

BY RICHARD KASISCHKE

London, Aug. 1, (AP)—The Nazi regime tonight offered a 1,000,000 mark reward ($400,000 at the pre-war exchange) for the capture of a former Leipzig mayor charged with complicity in the recent attempt on Hitler's life as reprisals continued to rock the German army and civilians.

Announcement of the reward from the German news agency, DNB said 60-year-old Dr. Karl Goerdeler, former mayor of Leipzig and former Reich price commissar, was wanted as an "accomplice" in the plot on Hitler's life. He was said to be in hiding since July 20, date of the abortive uprising in the German army.

Other reports from inside Germany said Dr. Otto Von Stuelpnagel killed himself after the plot's failure and that Field Marshal Gen. Ernst Von Busch, commander of the German army on the central sector of the eastern front, committed suicide after he was grilled in connection with the plot and then dismissed. (Busch's suicide had been previously reported without details.)

A report from Stockholm said that only a protest from 34 self-termed "trusted officers" prevented Hitler from carrying out a program of mass arrest and confiscation of property against German nobility and top families.

A Turkish correspondent in Germany wrote that in their drive for manpower the Germans had called 90,000 postmen up for military service causing a large-scale reduction in postal services. He also said that upper Silesian miners had been placed on an 86-hour work week and that in east Prussia 16-year-old boys were being mobilized for front line duty.

Production Halted On Plane Parts By Detroit GM Strike

Detroit, Aug. 1 (AP)—Production of aircraft engine parts in five General Motors plants here continued at a standstill today as 7,000 workers ignored a War Labor Board back-to-work order and the announcement of their union officers that the United Automobile Workers (CIO) International executive board would be asked to take over their local organizations.

Meanwhile a second strike affecting aircraft production developed when approximately 1,000 workers employed by the Stinson division of Consolidated Vulte Aircraft Corporation in Wayne, Mich., left their jobs protesting the laying off of a fellow employee. The Stinson division produces the "Flying Jeep" which the army uses for liaison and observation flights and also navigational training planes for Britain.

ENEMY RANKS BROKEN; 7,812 ARE CAPTURED

GERMAN RESISTANCE CRUMBLES ALONG FRENCH FRONT

BY JAMES M. LONG

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Wednesday, Aug. 2. (AP) — American armor smashed into Brittany at four points Tuesday, plunging 10 to 13 miles beyond captured Avranches in two directions, and sweating infantrymen cut their way through disintegrating German resistance over a wide front, bagging a one-day total of 7,812 prisoners.

In the hottest, most humid weather since D-day the American forces on the western sector of the French battle-front battered the enemy into a retreat which Associated Press Correspondent E. D. Ball said had "lost all order."

One American tank column penetrated Brittany to the town of Pontorson, 13 miles southwest of Avranches, and doughboy patrols rounded up disheartened, resigned Germans in clusters.

While the armor drove down the coast beyond Avranches American infantry came into its own with a powerful inland smash into the streets of Villedieu-Les Poeles and Tessy-Sur-Vire, and along the whole inland side of the Yank breakthrough German resistance was crumbling.

Dams Taken Intact

As the great offensive rolled into its ninth day, a supreme headquarters communique said armored spearheads captured two dams in an area ten miles southeast of Avranches across the Selune River, boundary of and last natural barrier before Brittany. A front dispatch said the advance was so swift the Germans had no chance to blow up the installations.

The Americans also smashed across the river four and one-half and six miles southeast of Avranches, taking Pontaubault and Ducey.

Ten miles east of Avranches the doughboys strengthened their hold along the See River, capturing Grecey, a road junction.

Advance Speeded Up

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher in a dispatch from the front said the Germans probably would try to halt the drive before the Americans surge completely out of the Cotentin peninsuit and into the interior of France, where Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge would be unable to establish a line.

Lt. Gen. Omar B. Bradley has caught up with his timetable and is swinging along now far better than was expected ten days ago, having accomplished the three primary objectives assigned him—securing of the beachhead, capture of Cherbourg and the breakthrough out of the Normandy hedgerows and into open country for swift, mobile warfare.

In the sector around Caumont, the British were enveloping Villers-Bocage, seven miles east of Caumont, and Associated Press Correspondent Roger D. Greene reported they were squeezing Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in a powerful vise.

NAVY SEEKING 17-YEAR-OLDS

Quotas Lifted, Recruiter Arrives In Escanaba

CBM Bradford Smith, U. S. Navy, has arrived in Escanaba to take charge of the Escanaba naval recruiting station at the postoffice building.

Chief Smith reported yesterday that there are unlimited openings now in the regular navy and the naval reserve for youths 17 years of age, the quota restrictions previously in effect having been lifted indefinitely.

Women between the ages of 20 and 35 also are wanted for enlistment in the Waves, the navy auxiliary. Women seeking information concerning this branch of the service are asked to contact Chief Smith at the recruiting office.

When Chief H. W. Edgerley left Escanaba for Marquette several weeks ago, there were approximately 100 applications for enlistment on file here. Smith reported yesterday that those applications are now located in the Marquette office and are being handled by Chief Edgerly, who is contacting the applicants still eligible for enlistment in the navy.

Chief Specialist H. C. Benallack, of the Navy Recruiting service, also was in Escanaba yesterday and is leaving today to return to Milwaukee.

Warships Support Troops

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported Monday night that the marines of the second and fourth division launched an attack Sunday on the last enemy defenses of Tinian.

On Guam, American marines and doughboys had established their lines across the island from Agana Bay on the west to Pago on the east. Nimitz said this operation was supported by the deadly fire of U. S. warships, firing on both sides of the island.

Patrols probing the southern half of Guam encountered little resistance, explaining the swift maneuver that added nearly 100 square miles, including the capital town of Agana, to the American occupied area.

eastern hinge of the 80-mile Allied line a new offensive erupted southeast of Caen. Tilly-La-Campagne changed hands several times. Canadians smashed into the stronghold, four miles below Caen, but fell back after a violent counter-assault. The Nazis are supersensitive in this sector, which points toward Paris.

Ten miles east of Avranches, the Americans in a 12-mile advance seized Brecey, highway junction on the See River eight miles south of Villedieu-Les-Poeles, where the Nazis are being hemmed in.

In the rear of the American line in the west, preliminary estimates placed Nazi dead at 4,500 in the pocket between Roncey and St. Denis Le Gast, where 105mm howitzers and the air force had ripped two German columns to pieces. A large number of tanks were among the more than 500 vehicles destroyed in the pocket.

Induction Of Men Over 25 Speeded If Not In War Job

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Local and state draft authorities got a prod from national headquarters today to proceed with the induction of men over 25 who are making no contribution to the war.

They were also instructed to sweep out of Class 1-A all the men over 25 whose jobs entitle them to deferment, leaving in 1-A only those registrants actually available for induction.

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, rescinded an order which had authorized state directors to postpone temporarily all inductions of men over 25—regardless of their jobs. This order was issued originally to allow local boards time to reclassify their registrants in accordance with the draft policy announced in May which put emphasis on the need for men under age 25.

DEWEY LASHES RABBLE-BAITER

Presidential Campaign Brought To Cornbelt By GOP Candidate

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey brought his presidential campaign into the cornbelt today to pay homage to the first Republican chief executive, Abraham Lincoln, to take swipes at Franklin D. Roosevelt and Gerald L. K. Smith, and to assert that "our strength depends upon the American people and upon no one man."

The Republican nominee, who put in years at "racket-busting" as a district attorney, made his first train platform speech of the campaign when he rolled into Springfield this morning and was greeted by Governor Dwight H Green of Illinois.

From the railroad station where several thousands heard him, Dewey paraded to the executive mansion in an open car. Standing on a second-floor staircase, he turned his guns on Smith and the America First Party which nominated Smith for president and Governor John W. Bricker, Dewey's own running mate, for vice-president.

"Gerald Smith," the Republican nominee told his news conference in measured tones, "is one of those rabble-rousers who, like Adolf Hitler, makes racial prejudice his stock in trade. His contemptible attempt to associate himself with Governor Bricker is a sinister effort to smear the Republican candidate for vice-president."

RUSSIANS CUT ALL ROADS TO EAST PRUSSIA

Germans acknowledged in a broadcast tonight that Russian troops had gained seven bridgeheads on the west bank of the Vistula river in the Deblin area 57 miles southeast of Warsaw, but claimed all but one was later eliminated. That stream is the last big natural barrier on the road to Germany 140 miles westward.

In that area, according to London reports, a Polish underground army of 25,000 was assisting the Russian advance.

The German defenders of East Prussia were being pushed back along a 90-mile front from the middle Bug river to Augustow, eight miles from the pre-1939 frontier of the Reich.

Ham Fish Winner In Spite Of Dewey

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 1. (AP)—Rep. Hamilton Fish today overcame opposition of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie to win renomination as Republican candidate for congress from the 29th New York district.

On the basis of unofficial and incomplete returns, 237 of 278 districts gave Fish 13,641 votes; his opponent, Augustus W. Bennet 10,506. As most districts are small there was no possibility of Bennet overtaking the veteran representative.

Philippine Islands President Named To Succeed Quezon

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP) — Sergio Osmena today took over as president of the Philippine commonwealth, succeeding Manuel L. Quezon, who died earlier in the day at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

The 65-year-old Osmena, who has been vice president since 1935, may thus become the first president of an Independent Philippine Republic since President Roosevelt and Congress have pledged that the Philippines shall have complete freedom as soon as the Japanese invaders are ousted.

Osmena was originally scheduled to become president last November 15 when Quezon's term expired but Congress extended Quezon's tenure of office.

Long a prominent figure in Philippine political life, Osmena was speaker of the first Filipino assembly in 1907 and continued in that post until 1916.

Formerly on opposite sides of the political fence, Quezon and Osmena joined forces in the Nacionalista Party.

They stayed with the American forces when the Japanese invaded the islands, and later fled Corregidor at about the same time as General Douglas Mac Arthur.

President Roosevelt in a statement issued at the White House said Filipinos will remember Quezon with the same veneration that people in the United States give George Washington, and said he died "in full confidence" that his people will be freed of foreign domination and with the assistance of the United States, become a self-governed people.

Wilmington, N. C., Lashed By Storm

Wilmington, N. C., Aug. 1 (AP)—A tropical storm of hurricane proportions veered inland slightly south of Wilmington late tonight after lashing this war-booming port for more than four hours and causing extensive damage.

Enormous waves, whipped by winds which at their height reached 60 miles an hour, inundated the nearby beach resorts, and thousands of persons were evacuated even as water rose into the beach hotels and cottages.

The weather bureau announced at 10 p. m., the storm had passed inland, and at that time the winds were gradually diminishing over the debris-strewn and tree-littered city.

Champ Clark Gains In Ballot Contest

St. Louis, Aug. 1 (AP)—Sen. Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, fighting an uphill battle for Democratic renomination for a third senate term, pulled up to within a thousand votes of his primary opponent, Attorney General Roy McKittrick, tonight.

With 1,036 precincts reported out of 4,512—covering about a fourth of the state—McKittrick's total was 37,767 and Clark's 36,962.

SHOT BY STREETCAR

Baltimore, Aug. 1 (AP)—A streetcar shot Vincent F. Long of Baltimore in the neck today—and got away.

Police said the trolley ran over and exploded a .38 calibre bullet on the track, and was gone around a corner before Long reached up and found his neck bleeding. The wound wasn't serious.

STILWELL GETS HIS FOUR STARS

Gaunt Scourge Of Japs In Burma Recognized In Washington

BY WILLIAM FYRE

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—The four stars of the army's highest rank were given today to Uncle Joe Stilwell, the gaunt and zealous scourge of the Japs in Burma, and the man with more titles than any other general in the army.

President Roosevelt sent to the senate the nomination of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell to be a full general, making him equal in rank to Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, to whom Stilwell is deputy for the Allied southeast Asia command.

But Stilwell is more than deputy commander in chief, southeast Asia. He is also commanding general, U. S. Army forces, in China-Burma-India, and chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek.

While the immediate reaction to the announcement of Stilwell's promotion was to guess that it presages an upsurge of military activity in Asia, this view was discounted in informed quarters. The army itself said the promotion is "in recognation of outstanding leadership and courage on the field of battle."

Stilwell has been an insistent prophet of the military potentialities of the Chinese soldier.

The promotion gives Stilwell rank equal to that of the other commanders of major American field forces—General Dwight D. Eisenhower in Europe and General Douglas MacArthur whose forces are driving up from the southwest Pacific.

Morrison Is GOP Auditor General Pick

Without pausing to hear their resolutions read, the convention shouted a vote under rule suspension adopting a platform which invited support from organized labor, and demanded a constitutional amendment to divide into legislative districts any city having more than three members of the state House of Representatives. Detroit now elects 21 representatives-at-large.

The resolutions rescribed the GOP as "historical champion of free labor," reaffirmed its belief in the right of collective bargaining and commended "the many leaders of labor who have sought so strenuously to maintain their no-strike pledge."

It made no mention of demands of some units of local government for diversion of a percentage of the state sales tax to them, but endorsed Governor Kelly's action creating a study commission to determine needs of these units and make recommendations.

Morrison's chances received a boost today when State Rep. Victor A. Knox of Sault Ste. Marie, withdrew from the race. Knox made one of Morrison's nominating speeches.

NO ELECTION INTEREST

Rome, Aug. 1 (AP)— American troops in Italy "show an utter lack of interest" in the forthcoming elections, the national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Carl J. Schoeniger of Detroit, said today.

They are interested primarily in going home, he told a press conference after touring numerous army units at and behind the front.

Have a "Coke" = What's the hurry?

...a way to be carefree in the Caribbean

Between spells of duty at our southern outposts, the American soldier knows how to relax. Have a "Coke", says a thirsty Yank, and it's like a friendly invitation to fun or a chin-fest... the same as when you serve Coca-Cola in your home. From the Caribbean to the Arctic, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the high-sign of friendliness many places overseas.

Are You Choosing To Be Poor?

BY BOOTH TARKINGTON

War, death, sickness, poverty. Even here in the United States not one of us can keep the war out of his life, nor fend off death, nor continually avert sickness. But the fourth affliction, poverty, is optional. That we can ourselves individually choose whether to be poor or not is strangely a secret from many, many people whom the fact stares straight in the face. And all over this country men and women, now richer than they have ever been, are engaged in choosing to become poor -- energetically hustling to bring that curse down upon themselves.

Mr. Tarkington

Only a moron would do such a thing, say you? No, many of the seekers after poverty are otherwise intelligent. They merely don't understand that the most inevitable of all old economic facts is blazoned in the truest of all old economic fables, the story of the grasshopper and the ant.

We hear that today's great spenders are the women—not all women but millions of them—who blind themselves to tomorrw. Tomorrow's almost here — with moths in the fur coat, the new furniture sold, the wrist watch pawned, bread 15 cents a loaf and no 15 cents in the stripped house. And yet any woman with willpower enough not to envy her neighbor can save a-plenty now to save herself and her family tomorrow.

Why choose to hurry back to that old cry of pain, "It's hell to be poor"?

Cpl. Stoll Gets Silver Star for Gallant Service

Cpl. Charles Stewart Stoll, son of C. W. Stoll, 600 Lake Shore Drive, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action against the enemy on Guadalcanal, British Solomon Islands, Major General Julian C. Smith, commanding officer of the U. S. Marine Corps second division, has announced.

The citation follows:

1. On 20 December 42, Corporal Stoll displayed heroism true to the Marine Corps tradition. He destroyed a Japanese anti-aircraft and machine gun, the United States then being in a state of war with Japan.

2. Corporal Stoll, then serving in the United States Marine Corps as a private first class, did lead his platoon of 33 men behind the enemy lines for the purpose of destroying an enemy position of an anti-aircraft gun and a machine gun, the anti- aircraft piece being used as an artillery piece on our troops. Only 7 of his men and himself reached the objective, 26 of them becoming casualties. An enemy force of far superior strength attempted to repel the attack by the small remaining patrol, so Corporal Stoll deployed his remaining six men to attempt to hold off the attempts of the enemy. Corporal Stoll, with one other man, flanked the enemy position and destroyed it. The man accompanying Corporal Stoll became a casualty before they could reach their objective, but Corporal Stoll completed the mission alone. He annihilated 19 of the enemy by use of hand grenades and a Thompson sub-machine gun.

He put the artillery piece out of commission by inserting a hand grenade in the breach, and destroyed the action of the machine gun. He then led his remaining 3 men to safety behind his own lines.

3. This award is made in the name of the President of the United States.

Additional Cooking Stoves Available

Because of a small increase in the supply of cooking stoves available for civilians, rationing restrictions on these stoves have been relaxed slightly, the Office of Price Administration said.

Any person is eligible for a certificate provided he has no other means of cooking, whether or not the stove is to be used in what is considered "essential" living or working space.

This provision becomes effective August 5, 1944.

Eligibility requirements set up at the outset of stove rationing provided a safeguard against diversion of the acutely short supply of cooking stoves for use in living or working space not considered essential, such a as summer homes where the stoves would be used only during a portion of the year.

OPA also announced that conversion burners for ranges used in cooking may be obtained by dealers, distributors and manufacturers certificate-free on and after August 5, 1944. Consumers, however, continue to need ration certificates.

Norway Pays

PROBABLY the people of no nation have suffered more than the Norwegians, since that nation was over-run by the Nazi battle wagons early in the war. Norway's stark unpreparedness for war and the Quislings planted by the Germans in that country, before the invasion came, made that nation an easy and quick victim of the onslaught.

From the very moment the Nazis took over control of Norway's government and established the sternest possible rules of conduct for the Norwegian people, the spirit of the subjugated people has never been broken. They have practiced sabotage in its every and cleverest forms. They have boldly defied their conquerors and have witnessed the mass execution of their patriots. They have risked death on the ocean in open boats, in desperate efforts to lend their aid to the forces fighting Hitlerism in Europet. They have murdered in ever increasing volume their own countrymen who turned traitors to Norway and accepted posts of power in the Nazi occupational government. They have maintained the most efficient underground force of opposition in all of Europe. They have prayed patiently for their day of liberation. And when the historical background of World War II is written it will be the nation of the Norwegians that will be proclaimed the seat of the most intense national patriotism in all of Europe.

And in spite of the hardships and sacrifices suffered by her people, Norway's government in exile, has found it possible this week to pay off the last instalment of a $25,000,000 indebtedness contracted by that nation in time of peace and plenty. Little Finland kept her financial honor with this nation, but was finally forced into what Americans hope was a hated alliance with Hitlerism, but Norway has not only kept her financial record clear but has preserved her patriotic integrity, clean and unsullied, in the great family of nations of the world.

Waited Too Long

FOR months, the American and British governments tried to induce Finland to withdraw from the war and make the best possible bargain with Russia, but all peace efforts were of no avail.

Apparently, Finland's pro-Nazi government was taken in by the promises from Berlin that Hitler's armies would eventually triumph over the Allies. Only a few weeks ago the Helsinki government announced it would keep its alliance with Germany. This was followed by the expulsion of Finnish Minister Procope, who had been using his diplomatic offices in Washington for the dissemination of anti-Russian propaganda.

The Finnish government has continued to pay its war debt to this country all the time it has been collaborating with Germany. This has been an honorable gesture on Finland's part, but it cannot compensate for her interference with the Allied war effort on the military front.

The Finnish people now realize that Hitler's assurances of an Axis victory were not founded upon truth, for they can see for themselves that their country will be completely cut off by the Russian advances into Prussia. They are now trying to oust their pro-Nazi government with a view of somehow getting out of the war.

Finland has waited too long, however. She will have to pay a much heavier price for peace with Russia now.

Nazis Leave Turkey

THE Berlin government has notified German nationals within Turkey to start packing for their return home and has released the information that Ankara is planning to break economic and diplomatic relations with the Nazis sometime this week.

Germany had its wily diplomat, Von Papen, stationed in Ankara for a long time, but despite his efforts Turkey remained through it all as neutral as she could be under the circumstances. True enough, she shipped chrome and other materials to Germany in return for military equipment, which she needed and could not receive from the Allies.

However, Turkey retained her territorial integrity. She did not give German troops the right of transit through her country as Sweden afforded passage of Nazi soldiers enroute to Norway. The Turks said they would fight if invaded, and this threat was probably the reason the Nazis never marched on to the vital oil fields of the Near East. Germany could make good use of that oil now.

Turkey's neutrality has worked more to the advantage of the Allies than to the Axis. Poorly armed at the outbreak of the war, she would have been unable to give much resistance to Nazi might. Quite likely, German admission that Turkey is entering the war on the side of Allies can be accepted as truth in this instance. Even though her entry is belated, it would be tremendously helpful to the Allied cause. It would give impetus to the disintegration of the Axis power and prestige in the Balkans. Turkey should be welcomed into the Allied fold with open arms.

Truck Tires Short

ONLY 80 tires have been allocated for motor trucks in the Upper Peninsula in August, a number far below normal demand but made necessary by heavy military uses on the war fronts and a scarcity of the heavy-duty rubber.

The army is now taking 98 per cent of the truck tire production. Increased output of the synthetic rubber plants is not reflected in the production of truck tires for the reason that only the natural rubber will stand up under heavy duty. Synthetics are giving satisfactory service on passenger automobiles, however. But for truck tires, the primary ingredient must be the raw rubber, which the United States is able to obtain from the trees in South America and Africa and the lowly guayule plant in Mexico and California.

The tire shortage is of serious concern to the Upper Peninsula lumbering industry, whose woods operations now are much dependent upon motor truck transportation. Those who are still fortunate to have serviceable truck tires, are being reminded they should do everything possible to conserve them. It's good advice—much better than that given in the past by those who griped that tire and gasoline rationing was just politics.

Watch for Polio

PUBLIC health officials in Washington are calling attention to an alarming spread of infantile paralysis in the country and are appealing to parents to do everything possible to safeguard their children from the crippling disease.

Here are some of the protective measures advocated by health authorities:

Make constant checks for headaches, fever, nausea, soreness of the throat and stiffness of the neck. If any of these symptoms arise, call a physician immediately and arrange for hospitalization if possible.

Allow children to travel as little as possible. Keep them off buses and trains.

Avoid crowds.

Keep them away from swimming pools unless it can be determined that contacts there or in camps are no greater than normal contacts at home.

The Upper Peninsula, which had a widespread epidemic of polio a few years ago, is well aware of the misery that this disease can cause. The cost of the ordinary protective measures that should be taken is negligible, but the possibilities for preventing the dreadful scourge of this disease are great.

DON'T CHEER—PRAY AND WORK

(Detroit Free Press)

Are you getting ready to "celebrate" Victory Day when Germany surrenders?

If you are—DON'T.

American soldiers will be still fighting and dying.

There can be NO victory day until Japan, too, is crushed.

Defeat of Germany is but one step in the long, long struggle that lies ahead of us.

This war will not end as the first one did. The close of it will come, step by step and not suddenly.

With the collapse of the Nazi regime in Europe the real war of the Pacific will open.

It will be no time for telephone-book confetti, for wild carnival spirit. It will be the most solemn hour in our history.

Such a celebration would be a mockery to our heroic dead stretched across the vast wastes of the Pacific.

Their sacrifices are as yet to be avenged.

By common consent across the Nation when the D-Day of the French invasion began, we as a people prayed to God for those brave lads who hit the Normandy beachheads.

We sanctified their sacrifices by blending work and prayer.

Let us carry out that spirit when the Hitler horde is at last brought to heir just deserts, in full realization that another equally ruthless enemy must be conquered.

Let there be no cessation of the vital war production, not for a day, an hour, a minute!

Rather, in meekness of spirit and humility of awe, let us open our hearts in gratitude to those who have died for us and for those who must still die.

Let us never forget that the war will NOT be over.

GENERAL ON THE JOB

(Detroit Free Press)

Those who had hoped to make a political football out of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, in keeping with past performances, made two mistakes:

1—They let State civil service become an established fact.

2—They let Brig. Gen. Louis A. Kunzig, retired, become general manager under that civil service.

Gen. Kunzig is a West Pointer with a long and brilliant military career behind him. He has a good soldier's abhorence for political shenanigans, for red tape and for inefficiency.

More, his record and his character are such that he has the power of public opinion behind him.

Gov. Kelly is to be congratulated for his wisdom in backing up the General's demand that the liquor problem be handled on sound business principles.

Every pack of paper packs a punch—if turned in to the war effort.

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

Apparently Brother Hillman has invented a better vote trap, and even such trained vote snarers as Hague, Kelly and Flynn will soon be making a path to his door. If his Political Action Committee is, as he claims, not a political party, then a lot of people seeking election have been fooling away their time operating through political parties. The P. A. C. is geared to get people to register, to tell them how to vote and then to see that they vote. What, pray tell, is a political outfit for, if not for those things?

Moley

It is important at this moment not to dismiss the P. A. C. because it failed to nominate Mr. Wallace for Vice President. In trying to do that, it faced enormous odds. The two wings of the Democratic party, the South and the northern city bosses were squarely against it. Besides, Mr. Hillman found that his co-worker, Mr. Roosevelt, is prone to change his mind when political dangers appear. Finally, Mr. Hillman found that his helpers in the big convention floor battle were bungling amateurs. He will learn later how to manage a convention. But obviously he already knows what needs to be known between now and November. It is to persuade and cajole every available Roosevelt voter to go to the polls and be counted. That is what makes this organization so important from here on.

—EFFICIENT POLITICAL MACHINE—

In the course of years, I have seen many of the most efficient political machines in action. But this Hillman affair is something new and strange and formidable.

What has it got that the parties haven't got? Several things.

First, a well-paid staff of organizers who have, in a few years, gathered several million workers into a labor organization which makes them pay fat dues. That means persuasive speakers, artful wire-pullers and keen judges of public psychology.

Next, a group of very well paid writers who can get out pamphlets dressed out in simple, powerful language anyone can understand.

It also punishes its directives to precinct and shop leaders and solicitors in such detail and with such directness that the power of the central office will remify into every home and every club and workroom in the areas covered.

—MONEY TO SPEND—

Its political arguments would not stand the test of logic, but they are shrewd, plausible and simple to grasp.

It has men like Hillman at the top, who know thoroughly how various radical political movements in Europe were carried to success.

Finally, it has a whale of a lot of money-more than either party now possesses, perhaps more than both together.

Organization Republicans who know something of the Hillman setup entertain no doubts about its potential power. And Democrats whose only concern is to win are very happy about the new ally. But the Democrats who do not favor turning their party into a class movement are profoundly disturbed lest this ally become their master.

AUGUST

Originally, August was the sixth month. In the old ten-month Julean Calendar, the sixth month was named Sextilis. When Augustus (first Roman Emperor, B. C. 27-A. D. 14) modified the calendar, he renamed the sixth month Augustus in his own honor. Later, when Numa Pomilius added Januarius and Februarius at the beginning of the year, August became the eighth month.

The first Emperor's name was not really Augustus, but was Gaius Julius Caesar Octavianus. He chose Augustus for its Latin meaning, "consecrated; holy; majestic."

In English, august (small "a") is an adjective meaning, "of majestic grandeur." But the word is not pronounced like August ,the name of the month. Note the difference in accents:

August, the month: AW-gust
august, adjective: aw-GUST

HOW DID IT START?

Q. Did President Roosevelt invent the phrase, "The forgotten man"?

A. No, but he did popularize it in 1932 when, in a radio address, he referred to "The forgotten man at the bottom of the economic pyramid."

The phrase was first used by William Graham Sumner, 1883, in an essay titled The Forgotten Man: ". . . all the burdens fall on him, or on her, for the Forgotten Man is not seldom a woman."

To which I should like to add, ". . . and is generally a teacher."

While we are busying ourselves with brave plans for a postwar world in which there will be a quart of milk for every Hottentot, won't someone please remember the disgracefully underpaid plight of our teachers, and see to it that they, too, are able to afford an occasional quart of milk?

Straws That Show How the Wind Blows

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

GETTING ALONG—Back in the winter of 1938, Howard Sullivan, then nine years old, was trying out fancy figures on the ice at local rinks. He wasn't doing bad even then and, encouraged by Jon Flanagan, he improved rapidly in the next few years. When he was 14 he was skating like a veteran.

Dunathan

He saw Jon Flanagan get a chance to skate with Sonja Henie in her show during the 1942-43 season, while Howard was wowing them locally at winter carnival shows at the Escanaba indoor rink at the fair grounds. But Howard never thought much of skating in outside shows, of life as a professional—he was only 13 years old. Jon Flanagan traded his skates for skis, joined the biggest show on earth and is now starring with the U. S. Army ski troops in Texas.

Then in March, 1944, Howard Sullivan, 15, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Sullivan of 809 South 18th street, went to Chicago for an audition. The ice shows that draw big crowds in all the big cities the country over were looking for talent. And Howard with his shock of red hair, his wide grin, and his particular talent for doing tricks on ice skates to make people gasp and laugh, landed a job with the Ice-Capades.

He is the youngest skater, boy or girl, ever to be offered a contract for professional skating appearances in this country, his father was told.

Now as one of the featured skaters of the Ice-Capades, Howard is doing a comedy routine that is one of the high spots of a show packed with talent. He has a one-year contract, is doing his high school studies on the side. What the show managers think of him is indicated in his salary checks—he got a salary boost after the first three weeks.

PROUD TO KNOW HIM—What audiences think of Howard—and the show—is indicated in a letter recently received by his parents from Miss Hazel Paulson, former Escanaba Junior high school teacher, who left last spring to return to her home on the West Coast. On July 23 she wrote from Tacoma, Washington:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan:

We went to Seattle this afternoon to see the Ice-Capades show, and afterward went backstage to see Howard. He looked wonderful—very dressed up, but a little homesick, I think. He was looking forward to his vacation in August.

There were four of us girls, so I think we out-numbered and over-awed him considerably. Other members of the troupe would walk by and kid him just a little bit. You can see they think a great deal of him, and the other members of the show are tops with him, as well.

You can very well be proud of him—we certainly are proud that we just know him—so much so that we asked Howard for his autograph—probably the first time he truly found himself a celebrity.

The show was excellent—one of the best shows that I have seen and everyone else is saying the same. The Follies is probably more elaborate, but the skaters are not any better—I could say almost not as good. As we walked out this afternoon everyone was saying that it was so much better than they expected any ice show could be. I would like to see it again.

We like Washington. The state is much like the Upper Peninsula as far as scenery is concerned—with exception of the mountains. Two of us are going to stay here permanently and we are looking forward to Lois Pearson coming out.

Again I can't help but say that you can be the proudest parents that I know.

Sincerely,
Hazel Paulson.

COMING HOME—Howard's vacation, to which Miss Paulson refers, will start August 14. On that date Howard will leave for Escanaba—and home. Following his vacation he will return to the Ice-Capades and his job of making the audience laugh at his antics, and gasp with amazement at his dexterity on the steel runners—runners that are sliding him toward a career in a new field of entertainment.

This for a boy who won't be 16 until the 16th of September is really something. Many a man would consider today's position of the red-headed kid from Escanaba success in itself.

Ice shows are becoming more popular throughout the nation. Most larger cities already have year-around indoor ice rinks, and this number will grow by leaps and bounds after the war. Experience is proving that people not only like to ice skate—they like to watch the experts do it and are willing to pay to see them.

Perhaps Sonja Henie's skating, her personality, and her ability to project showmanship into one of the most rigorous of sports, can be credited with this upsurge of skating interest in America. Witness, if you will, the growing crop of little girls in this country named "Sonja," and the growing number of glamour-conscious kids who are trying to emulate the great Henie on local ice rinks.

Sonja Henie may have been the spur, but ice skating and ice shows are now popular sports and entertainment. Escanaba's annual winter ice review, and similar amateur shows over all this north country are breeding experts like Jon Flanagan and Howard Sullivan. Perhaps the 1944-45 Escanaba ice review may see the two starred for the entertainment of local folks, many of whom have never seen them since they polished up their routines as big-time professionals. Here's hoping it can be done.

NEW YORK—Movies: This is a story for Gin Rummy players: Bill Gering, who sells 20th Century-Fox movie products, was playing Gin with Goodman Ace of the Easy Aces . . . Whenever Gering plays the game and draws Gin, he doesn't make the customary declaration, "Gin," but as a loyal employee of the Fox studio, he utters the name of whatever picture his company is exploiting at the time. A few months ago he'd say "Song of Bernadette," and after that, "Purple Heart," all as the equivalent of "Gin" . . . In his game against Ace, Gering announced "Wilson." Ace shook his head and reminded his opponent: "In Gin Rummy you can't go down with 14 points."

SCHOOL DEPT.: George Seldes is the authority for this Einstein story: During the inflation period which followed the last war, Prof. Einstein boarded a Berlin street car, and asked what the fare was. "3½ marks," said the conductor. Einstein gave him a 20-mark bill . . . The conductor started to give him the change, then suggested: "Give me 1½ marks." Einstein did. "3½ plus 1½ makes 5," the conductor told him. "So here's your change—15 marks." Einstein hesitated, made his calculations, then nodded and said: "Right."

SPORTS: Joe E. Lewis, the night club comic, added the "E." to his name about seven years ago. This was brought about after he returned to Chicago's North Side, where he is a favorite. A fight manager asked him to pose for a photo with a new heavyweight prospect. "His name is Joe Louis," said the manager . . . "Tell him to change it," the comic advised. "Tell him at least to add a middle initial, like 'E.'" . . . The manager reported: "No. My fighter won't change his name." . . . "Well, I'll wait a few months, until he's knocked out a couple of times," said the comic. "Then everybody'll forget him, but I'll still be around." . . . But the heavyweight's fame increased. And when Louis won the championship, Lewis added the distinguishing "E" to his own name.

LANGUAGE DEPT.: Sgt. Bruce Bliven Jr. is in France now. He decided that the best way to learn the language is to converse with the natives. And the only two natives he could find were boys, nine and seven years old. They refused to speak French, and kept repeating in English their request for a piece of mint. Sgt. Bliven finally gave them half a mint and slyly suggested: "Have you a sister?" . . "Yes," they told him . . "Will you bring her here?" Bliven asked them. The youngsters went off to fetch their sister. They brought her to the eager Bliven. She was two years old. And she kept asking for, until she received, the other half of mint.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—One of the most important behind-the-scenes struggles for post-war power is now being waged between the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Both outfits know that the group which speaks for the veterans may well dictate to Congress and the nation after the war. Both are jockeying for that advantage.

Pearson

Actually, the Veterans of Foreign Wars are in a better position than the Legion to get a head start on recruiting veterans of World War II. The VFW charter from Congress permits recruiting men before they are discharged, while the Legion must wait until a man leaves the service before recruiting him.

Fact is the VFW has picked up more than 400,000 new members since Pearl Harbor, while the Legion's gains have been relatively paltry. At the start of the war, the Legion had more than one million members, the VFW only a quarter million. But today the VFW magazine has the largest overseas circulation of any non-Governmental publication, is now read by 300,000 men monthly. As a result, VFW is picking up members at the rate of 5,000 a week, while Legion officials fret, plan their own recruiting drive later.

One reason for VFW success has been a policy of tacitly bucking the American Legion on key policy matters. VFW helped paint the Legion as "anti-labor," then turned around and attempted to arrange a deal whereby all CIO and AFL members in the service would join the VFW instead of the Legion when they left the service. More than two million union men are in the service. This would be a sizable chunk for any group to recruit.

However, labor has not fallen for the bait. Instead, trade-union chapters of the American Legion are being rapidly built up to help combat any anti-union feelings of returning servicemen.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars also have made "hay" with a speech delivered by national Legion commander Warren Atherton in the South Pacific area recently. Atherton debunked the idea that men in the front lines fighting the Japs want furloughs home. The VFW immediately took advantage of this statement, set up a terrific howl for overseas furloughs, soon found membership applications pouring in.

—SOMERVELL'S PENTAGON BUILDING—

General Brehon Somervell, who masterminded the terrific job of sending supplies abroad for the invasion, also conceived and built the War Department's elaborate Pentagon Building. Proudly, he refers to that massive structure as his overgrown little baby and has good-naturedly taken much kidding about its intricate network of corridors. Scoffing at the suggestion that each employe be given a map to find his way around, he declared that only a fool could get lost in the Pentagon.

Recently, a grey-haired, stately officer, wearing three stars on his Army coat, meekly stuck his head inside an office and sheepishly asked: "Where am I? Can anyone here direct me to my office?"

"Certainly, General Somervell," replied a captain, who consulted a map on the wall and then proceeded to guide the General back to Service Fories headquarters.

Maps are now being printed for all Pentagon employes.

—ADMIRAL KING SLAPS—

Insiders now admit that friction between Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Ernie King is just as bad as it was between King and the late Frank Knox—or worse.

Knox and Admiral King rubbed each other raw. King used to go over the head of the Secretary of the Navy, even overruled him regarding the Navy's new grey summer uniform, which Knox—and most Navy men—opposed.

When Forrestal became Secretary of the Navy, it was hoped that relations would be harmonious. Last week, however, Admiral King publicly gave his chief an adroit slap-down.

Forrestal, Admiral King, and fighting Admiral Halsey were holding a joint press conference. The Secretary of the Navy was asked if he had any comment on the fall of the Tojo Cabinet. He replied that Navy personnel, including himself, were not supposed to comment on politics.

Whereupon Admiral King interrupted and, almost as if the Secretary of the Navy were a little boy, corrected him.

"I will comment on that," he announced, despite Forrestal's statement that political matters were not for comment by Navy personnel. "Obviously, the Cabinet would not have fallen unless there was dissatisfaction on the part of military leaders with the conduct of the war. The Japanese can be expected to continue to wage war with all the powers they possess."

Secretary Forrestal took the Admiral's remarks—interpreted by those present as an indirect slap-down—without saying a word.

The Roving Reporter

but they were only forms and I couldn't tell for sure.

Being tense and anxious to get finished, I hoped our truck would take the first tank. But no. We passed by, of course, and went backing on up the road.

When you're nervous you feel even 12 inches closer to the front is too much and the noise of your motor sounds like all the clanging of hell, directing the Germans to you.

I knew it was foolish to be nervous. I knew there was plenty of protection ahead. And yet there are times when you don't feel good to start with, you're uncomposed and the framework of your character is off balance, and you are weak inside. That's the way I was that night. Fortunately I'm not always that way.

Finally the dark shape of the second tank loomed up. Our officers and some men were standing in the road beside it. We backed to within about five feet of it, and the driver shut off his motor and we climbed down.

A layman would think all you have to do is hook a chain to the tank and pull it out of the ditch. But we were there half an hour. It seemed like all night to me.

First it had to be gone over for booby traps. I couldn't help but admire our mechanics. They knew these foreign tanks as well as our own.

One of them climbed down the hatch into the driver's seat and there in the dark, completely by feel, investigated the intricate gadgets of the cockpit and found just what shape it was in and told us the trouble.

It seemed that on this tank two levers at the driver's seat had been left in gear and they were so bent there was not room to shift them out of gear.

One man was sent back up the road to get a hacksaw from the wrecker truck so they could saw off the handles. After five minutes he came back and said there wasn't any hacksaw. Then they sent him back after a crowbar and that finally did the trick.

During this time we stood in a group around the tank, about a dozen of us, just talking. Shells still roamed the dark sky but they weren't coming as near as before.

There would be lulls of many minutes when there was hardly a sound but our own voices. Most everybody talked in low tones, yet in any group there's always somebody who can't bear to speak in anything less than foghorn proportions.

And now and then when they'd have to hammer on the tank it sounded as though a boiler factory had collapsed. I tried to counteract this by not talking at all.

An officer asked if anybody had inspected the breech of the tank's 88 gun. It seems the Germans sometimes leave a shell in the gun rigged up so it goes off when the tank is moved. Another officer said the breech was empty. So we started.

Slowly we ground back down the road in low gear with our great, black, massive load rolling behind us. One soldier rode in the tank to steer it.

We'd planned to pull it a long way back. Actually we pulled it only about half a mile, then decided to put it in a field for the night.

When we pulled into a likely pasture the sentry at the hedgerow gate wanted to know what we were doing and we told him, "leaving a German tank for the night."

And the esntry, in a horrified voice, said, "good God, don't leave it here. They might come after it." But leave it there we did, and damn glad to get rid of it, I assure you.

We drove home in the blackout, watching the tall hedgerows against the lighter sky for guidance. For miles the roads were as empty and silent as the farthest corner of a desert. The crash of the guns grew welcomely dimmer and dimmer until finally everything was nearly silent and it seemed there could be only peace in Normandy.

At last we came to our own hedgerow gate. As we drove in the sentry said, "coffee's waiting at the mess tent." They feed 24 hours a day in these outfits that work like firemen.

But my sleeping bag lay unrolled and waiting on the ground in a nearby tent. It was 3 a. m. With an almost childish gratitude at being there at all I went right to bed.

CANNERY WILL OPEN

Iron Mountain — Using live steam to thoroughly sterilize every unit, workmen at the Norway canning plant today are preparing for the reopening Tuesday, and the first run of wax beans.

John Giesen, Vulcan, was the first of the Association members to bring a crop to the cannery. Some 900 pounds of wax beans are in storage for the first run.

Twenty-five persons, mostly women, will be employed when new machinery—a snipper, two graders and two cutters—are put to use for the first time. In the processing room, one new retort has been added, to make up a battery of seven steamers. Early this summer a new boiler was installed and a new smoke stack built. With the exception of whole beans, which are hand packed, all work will be by machinery.

Piles—Get Relief Now

Millions of sufferers in the last 30 years have found a way to get quick relief from the itching and smarting of piles. They use a delightful cooling, soothing and astringent formula — Peterson's Ointment. No wonder one sufferer writes, "The itching and smarting were relieved, and I slept all night. Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE D-214: Arnold B., aged 42, is a Swiss engineer who came to America about 15 years ago, and liked our democratic life so much, he became a naturalized citizen. I had him in several psychology classes at Northwestern a decade ago.

"You Americans ought to be very proud of the FBI" he informed Mrs. Crane and me the other night while he was visiting in our home.

"I can give you a personal instance to show you how efficiently the FBI men stay on the job.

"A friend of mine, Professor Blank, wanted to send his sister in Switzerland some money. But he couldn't get it across because of war restrictions.

"So he asked me if I'd cable my father in Switzerland to give his sister the $500, while he gave me his check here in Chicago for the same sum. Then my father and I could square our accounts afterwards. I agreed.

Enter the FBI

"A few days later I received a cable from my father which said: 'Your order Emma Blank executed.

"Immediately the FBI at New York grew suspicious. I received a call here in Chicago and met with some of the FBI men, who wanted to know what I meant by sending cables to Switzerland to have people executed.

"For a moment, I didn't catch on, but then I saw the joke and laughed. I guess they thought me a callous Nazi for regarding the matter in such a humorous vein, but I explained the situation fully.

"They still wouldn't believe my story, so they called on Professor Blank, who confirmed everything I had said and showed them the check stub for the $500 he had given me to offset the same amount my father had delivered to his sister.

"The FBI then seemed satisfied but now I find my films cannot be released to me at the camera shop until the FBI have first examined them.

"Since I am a camera enthusiast this holding up of my developed prints every week or two is an obvious sign that the FBI are still on the job. And I understand they have issued orders to the camera shop to hold films for FBI inspection as long as the war lasts."

Words Move the World

Arnold's innocent involvement in an FBI investigation is only one of thousands of cases to show how efficiently J. Edgar Hoover and his FBI agents are attending to their jobs of uncovering any possible enemy influences in America. More power to them!

If other branches of our government in Washington, D. C. were only as thorough and competent, our tax bills would be greatly reduced.

But the only thing keeps an FBI from becoming a Gestapo, is the 2,000 American newspapers which resist the ever-present attempts of burocratic censorship, and thus permit us to see the facts so we can nip dictatorship in the bud on this side of the Atlantic Ocean.

Arnold's experience also illustrates Joseph Conrad's famous pronouncement regarding the power of language, wherein he said "Give me the right word and the right accent, and I will move the world."

That term "executed" when employed by a Swiss business man in a cable to his son, caused excitement clear over here in Chicago. If the word "fulfilled" had been employed, Arnold's photographic prints would not now be held up for FBI inspection till the end of the war.

Words can cause friction or promote peace, but you must be skilled in their proper use, which is part of the province of Applied Psychology.

Practical Home Canning Is Kept Within a Budget

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Just as much home-canned food is needed in this year of war as during last year. But the 1944 emphasis is on practical canning.

1. Put up only fresh fruits and vegetables which are not more than two hours from garden to can.

2. What does your family like? Can only those foods which your family will eat with pleasure. Food left uneaten on the shelves is food wasted.

3. Budget your canning. How many jars of fruits and vegetables will your family normally consume before next year's canning season? When you have estimated the capacity of your family, estimate how many bushels of each kind of fruit and vegetable you will need for this year's canning program.

4. Plan to can the most nourishing fruits and vegetables which are not likely to be available the year round in your local markets, such as tomatoes, snap beans, lima beans, peas and corn. Above all, can lots of tomatoes. They are a good source of vitamin C and also add variety to winter meals.

5. Follow this wartime rule—first put up the really nourishing foods, then, if your time, sugar and dollar budget permits, can the taste-tempters such as relishes, jellies, jams and preserves.

The following tables will help you figure yield of canned food from fresh.

FRUIT	FRESH	CANNED
Apples	1 bu. (48 lb.)	16-20 qt.
	2½-3 lb.	1 qt.
Berries, except strawberries	24-qt. crate	12-18qt.
	6-8 cups	1 qt.
Cherries, as picked	1 bu. (56 lb.)	22-32 qt.
	6-8 cups	1 qt.
Grapes	1 bu. (48 lb.)	16-20 qt.
	2½-3 lb.	1 qt.

	3-2½ lb.	1 qt.
Pears	1 bu. (50 lb.)	20-25 qt.

Plums	1 bu. (56 lb.)	28-40 qt.
	1½-2 lb.	1 qt.
Strawberries	24-qt. crate	12-16 qt.
	6-8 cups	1 qt.
Tomatoes	1 bu. (53 lb.)	15-20 qt.
	2½-3 lb.	1 qt.

Legal weight of a bushel of a vegetable varies in different states. These are average weights:

VEGETABLES	FRESH	CANNED
Beans, lima, in pods	1 bu. (52 lb.)	6-8 qt.
	4-5 lb.	1 qt.
Beans, snap	1 bu. (30 lb.)	15-20 qt.
	1½-2 lb.	1 qt.
Beets, without tops	1 bu. (52 lb.)	17-20 qt.
	2½-3 lb.	1 qt.
Carrots, without tops	1 bu. (50 lb.)	16-20 qt.
	2½-3 lb.	1 qt.

	6-16 cans	1 qt.
Greens	1 bu. (18 lb.)	6-9 qt.
	2-3 lb.	1 qt.
Peas, green, in pods	1 bu. (30 lb.)	12-15 pt.
	2-2½ lb.	1 pt.
Squash	1 bu. (40 lb.)	16-20 qt.
	2-2½ lb.	1 qt.
Sweetpotatoes, fresh	1 bu. (55 lb.)	18-22 qt.
	2½-3 lb.	1 qt.

How much sugar for canning will your family be allowed? Plan your canning accordingly.

You will have about the same amount of sugar as you did last year. First 5-pound sugar dividend for canning may be bought with sugar stamp No. 40 in War Ration Book No. 4. In addition, a maximum of 20 pounds more per person may be applied for at the homemaker's local ration board.

Sugar transactions may be handled by mail. First send for OPA form R-132, which is your application for extra sugar. On this, give your name and the names of the persons (at the same address) for whom you are requesting sugar, and the number of pounds of sugar needed. To the form, attach a spare stamp No. 37 from War Ration Book No. 4, for every person whose name is on the application. This is for purposes of identification. If the board approves the application, it will mail coupons or certificates for the sugar to you. Later you may apply for more, if necessary.

The general wartime rule is 1 pound of sugar (2 cups) to 4 quarts of canned fruit. Honey can be used to replace as much as half the sugar called for; or corn syrup to replace as much as one-third. Do not use brown sugar or unrefined syrups like sorghum. Don't use saccharin.

WITH SPARS—June M. Grandchamp, Seaman 1/c, SPARS, who is now home on leave from her station at the District Coast Guard Medical Warehouse in Philadelphia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grandchamp of Rapid River. Seaman Grandchamp has a brother in the service, Pfc. Henry A. Grandchamp of the United States Air Corps, who is somewhere in the Southwest Pacific.

Adult Education Institute to be Held October 4

The fifteenth annual Parent Education Institute will be held this fall in both the Upper and Lower Peninsula of the state, in accordance with the emergency plan inaugurated in 1942, and the Upper Peninsula meetings scheduled include one in Escanaba on October 4.

Other peninsula meetings are at Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 27; Marquette, Sept .28; Houghton, Sept. 29; Ironwood, Oct. 2; Iron Mountain, Oct. 3.

The emergency plan, which provides for one-day meetings in various centers rather than a five-day conference at Ann Arbor, is being tried out in the northern peninsula for the first time.

Special speakers, whose names will be announced later, will participate in panels, discussions and lecture sessions. Mrs. Bell Farley Murray, lecturerer and consultant in family relations for the Extension Service, will conduct a class in parent education. Dr. T. Luther Purdom, director of the University's Bureau of Appointments and Occupational Information, will also take part in the program.

The Institute is sponsored this year by the University Extension Service, in cooperation with the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Michigan Child Study Association, and the American Association of University Women.

Church Events

Christian Science Churches

"Spirit" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 6.

The Golden Text (I Corinthians 2:12) is: "We have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God: that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (John 4:24): "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (334): "Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God."

Ross Davis Hooks Big Northern Pike

One of the largest northern pike caught in this area in recent years was hooked by Ross Davis, 1302 Lake Shore Drive, Sunday afternoon while fishing at Martin's Bay, when he snared one weighing 20 pounds and measuring 43 and one-half inches.

Mr. Davis was a member of a fishing party that included George Tait and John Williams of the Coast Guard and Al Lewis.

According to members of the party, the fish put up a terrific struggle and after the prize catch was safely in the boat, there was scarcely room left for the fishermen. Mr. Davis has entered his catch in the current Daily Press contest.

BOND DRIVE IS SUCCESS IN U. P.

Delta County Exceeds Quota By Over 5 Percent

Delta county exceeded its bond quota by 5.8 per cent in the fifth war loan drive, according to a letter received here yesterday by John Olsen, chairman of the county banking division from L. B. Hadley, deputy manager.

The county went over the top despite the fact that individual E bond sales were only 71.2 per cent of the quota and total individual sales were 99.4 per cent. The surplus was made possible by the heavy purchase of bonds other than those of the E series by individuals ,purchases totaling 179.8 dividuals, purchases totaling 179.9 per cent of the quota allotted, and the purchase by corporations within the county of 109.9 per cent of their quota.

Mr. Hadley's report, which includes all sales credited to Upper Michigan counties from June 1 through July 29, shows that Ontonagon county ranked first with 180.8 per cent of its quota, while Alger was second with 122.3 per cent. Only two counties failed to go over the top, Luce with 89 and Mackinac with 87.

Two out of the 14 counties in Upper Michigan surpassed the 100 per cent mark in E bond purchases. Ontonagon again led the way with 118.2 per cent, while Dickinson had 107.5. Ranking first in individual purchases of other issues was Baraga with 301.2 per cent of its quota, while Ontonagon was first in corporation purchases with 251.5 per cent.

The following table shows the percentage of the quota purchased in each of the counties of the Upper Peninsula:

Kennedy-Firkus

Miss Theresa Ann Kennedy of St. Nazianz, Wis., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy, 618 Minnesota avenue, Gladstone, became the bride of Harold R. Firkus of St. Nazianz at a solemn high mass at 8:30 Saturday morning celebrated at All Saints Catholic church by Rev. Fr. Joseph F. Schaul.

Bouquets of garden flowers were used to decorate the church altars for the ceremony, during which Schubert's Ave Maria, and Mother Dear Oh Pray For Me were sung by Bernard Bassett, a close friend of the bridal couple. St. Basil's mass was sung by the choir.

The couple was attended by Dorothy Warachek of Kewaunee, Wis., and Leo Retzki, a brother-in-law of the groom, from Stevens Point, Wis.

The bride was attired in a starched chiffon dress. The basque bodice had a V neckline and long bishop sleeves. The bouffant skirt had tiers of cording and was floor length. An illusion finger tip veil was held by a crown of tulle and trimmed with inserts of chantilly lace. She carried a white prayer book on which was an arrangement of white gardenias and bouvardia. The bride's only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Her attendance wore a dress of white sheer silk marquisette with puff sleeves and sweetheart neckline. She wore a string of pearls, a gift of the bride, and carried a colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Kennedy wore a rose colored print two piece dress and had a corsage of gardenias and roses, while Mrs. Furlick wore a grey silk print dress with a corsage similar to that worn by the bride's mother.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served for 25 guests at the Sherman hotel. A three tiered wedding cake served as a center piece for the table which was decorated with bouquets of sweet peas.

The bride and groom left Saturday on a wedding trip to an unannounced destination. As her going away outfit, the bride selected a brown silk dress with matching accessories. They will make their home at St. Nazianz, where both are employed at the Salvatorian Fathers publishing department office.

Mrs. Firkus attended school here and following graduation from high school was a student at the Green Bay Business college.

Out of town guests at the wedding were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Firkus and daughter, Belle, and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tetski and son, Leo, Jr., of Stevens Point, Mrs. Thelma Firkus, Milwaukee, Bert Bassett and Mike Wareski, St. Nazianz, Mrs. Bert McPherson, Chicago, and Mrs. Marshal Dupie, Escanaba.

OPA Price Panel Told Of Restaurant Regulations

Ray F. LaPorte of the district OPA office at Escanaba met with the members of the price panel of the local price and ration board Monday evening to explain the regulations of restaurant prices that took effect at 12:01 Monday morning. He also explained briefly the tavern regulation that will become effective August 21.

In explaining the need for price regulation, LaPorte used as an example the liquor industry which is the third largest in the United States. He pointed out that it was a three million dollar industry last year on which audits showed a six hundred thousand dollar increase over the base period.

The base period for all restaurant commodities but coffee will be April 4-10 of 1943. In the case of coffee, the base period will be October 4-10 of 1942. This base has been chosen because of the rise in the price of a cup of coffee when ration of that item went into effect.

As well as a high regulation, there will be a low and medium regulation. Not only will restaurants not be permitted to go beyond prices they charged for various dinners, breakfasts, etc. during the base period, he went on, but they will not be allowed to eliminate low price dinners and lunches and concentrate on the higher priced dishes. If they were serving inexpensive dishes during the base period and should discontinue the practice now, they can be made to resume service.

LaPorte explained in the case of seasonal businesses where prices are higher during the busy season and lower during the slack time, if the owner can prove that 80 per cent of his business is done in any four month period, he will be permitted to charge the higher prices otherwise, he must go to the lower prices. This is to prevent "spurts" in business to allow owners to charge higher prices.

All restaurants are required to have two copies of base period mennues on file for public inspection at any time, LaPorte said, and by August 16, ceiling prices must be posted.

In explaining the tavern regulation which uses the same base period, April 4-10 of 1943, LaPorte stated that the establishments are divided into three groups according to investment in the business. There will be 1-B, 2-B and 3-B establishments. Most of the taverns in this vicinity, he claimed would fall into the 2-B classification. There will be few 1-B and 3-B.

Taverns of the 2-B class will be permitted to charge 14 cents for local beer and 19 cents for premium beer per bottle. Those of the 1-B class can take 19 cents for local beer and 24 cents for premium beer and 3-B establishments are allowed 12 cents for local and 17 for premium.

If the tavern charges excise tax, all prices will be one cent higher. They will be permitted to do that, however, if that was their practice during the base period. If they absorbed the tax then, they must continue to do so.

These regulations apply only to "on the premises" consumption. Carryout rulings will be made later, he said.

As Chief Clerk George Mathews has set up the local price panel, there are eight members with ten advisors representing the various branches of retail enterprise.

Members of the panel under the chairmanship of Ray Prine are: Thomas Harrington, Clara Hastings, Earl LeBrasseur who is in charge of the rtseaurant price enforcement, Arthur Demers, Thomas Wilson, Cecil Moore and Myrtle Moore.

Advisors to this group are: Otner Schuster and Ossie Smith on groceries, Leonard J. Harbick on dry goods and ready-to-wear, E. E. Cookson on hardware, E. T. Lundstrom on automobiles, Homer LaFoille on taverns, Jack Quick on drugs, George Graphos on restaurants, Joseph New on dry cleaning and Carl Carlson on coal and fuel.

The panel is now engaged in an investigation of grocery prices.

STUDY BEAVER PROBLEM

Sault Ste. Marie.—W. F. Carbine of Lansing of the staff of the Institute for Fisheries Research, Fish Division, Department of Conservation, was in Chippewa county yesterday for a survey of the beaver situation in anticipation of action by the Conservation commission to open or close the season in the Upper Peninsula in 1944.

Mr. Carbine has made a tour of the Upper Peninsula and has found opinion divided as to whether the season should remain closed to improve trout fishing, a factor usually considered in connection with beaver. In some parts of the Upper Peninsula sportsmen are said to be strong for keeping the season closed on beaver; in other parts the recommendation is for opening the season.

SERIES TAKEN BY TIGERS, 3-1

Dizzy Trout Defeats Yankees, 8 To 4, His 16th Win

Detroit, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers defeated the New York Yankees 8 to 4 today before the largest twilight attendance of the season here—26,815—taking the series, three games to one. Paul (Dizzy) Trout giving 14 hits scored his 16th win of the season. Ernie Bonham was the loser.

Rudy York belted his 11th home run of the season with one on in the seventh.

The defeat, 10th in 17 games for the Yankees on their current road trip and 10th in 15 starts against Detroit this season, deprived New York of a chance to move into second place ahead of the Boston Red Sox.

Trout, who beat the Yanks Saturday in relief, became the American league's third pitcher this season to grab 16 wins. He has lost nine.

Bonham, suffering his fourth setback against eight victories, was battered from the box in the fourth inning after permitting eight Detroit hits and six runs.

Trout was pounded freely all the way but his mates gave him plenty of timely batting support.

Roger Cramer opened the game with a double to center, was sacrifices to third by Eddie Mayo and scored on Oscar Grimes' error on Rudy York's grounder. The Yanks tied it in the second when Johnny Lindell singled, took second when Cramer bobbled the ball in center and scored on Nick Etten's single to right.

Pinky Higgins' single, Bob Swift's double to left and Joe Hoover's single over second base accounted for two Tiger runs in the second.

In the Yankee third Milosevich singled to center and was thrown out at the plate on York's relay to Jim Outlaw's throw after George Stirnweiss doubled down the right field line. Swift suffered a torn finger nail in the collision with Milosevich at the plate and was replaced by Paul Richards.

Higgins led off the Tiger fourth with a single to center and Richards singled to right putting men on first and third. Higgins scored and Richards took third on Hoover's double. Trout's fly to center scored Richards and sent Hoover to third, from where he also scored on Cramer's fly.

Mayo's single brought Al Lyons in to relieve Bonham, who thus saw his winning streak of six games go by the boards. Mayo was out stealing to end the inning and the Tigers led 6 to 1.

New York scored twice in the sixth on four singles and a pass, Trout striking out Lyons for the final out with the bases loaded.

York's seventh inning homer, scoring Outlaw, who had walked, was a mighty blast into the upper deck in left field.

Don Savage's pinch single, Stirnweiss' third hit of the game and Hoover's error in Lindell's grounder accounted for the last Yankee score in the ninth.

Detroit plays a western Michigan all-star nine at Grand Rapids tomorrow and has exhibitions at Muskegon and Kalamazoo before hitting the road Saturday to be gone from Briggs Stadium until Aug. 25.

Wyatt Is Shelled Off Mound, Cards Get 14-3 Verdict

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Whitt Wyatt, who pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to the league pennant in 1941, tested his ailing flipper today, was shelled from the mound in less than four innings and the St. Louis Cardinals won, 14 to 3.

Wyatt, making his first mound appearance since June 28, was pounded for ten hits and seven runs. All told, the Cards collected 17 blows off five hurlers.

Whitey Kurowski, who has been on the bench of late because of weak hitting, got three singles and drove in a pair of runs. Johnny Hopp also got three and Stan Musial, leading hitter in the major leagues, clouted a double and a triple and drove in four.

Score by innings:

St. Louis	310 330 136	14	17
Brooklyn	100 100 001	3	10

RACE DIVISION WINNER—Skippered by Roger Williams, the Rinette IV, registered under the Marinette and Menominee Yacht club, won the racing division of the Escanaba Yacht club cruise last week. The Rinette IV took the first two legs of the event and led the Oslo of Escanaba, 10½ points to 6, when the last two legs of the race were cancelled after boats had been weatherbound for two days because of heavy sea and wind squalls.

Dodgers Don't Win Often; Particular Who They Beat

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, July 28 (AP)—If Al Weill was giving the reason, he'd say it was just a question of styles but that doesn't seem to be the right answer to the question of why the Brooklyn Dodgers can't beat anybody else this year but they can beat three pitchers chosen for the league all-star team. The Dodgers haven't any style this season, for one thing.

Weill is short, round and agile, and he manages fighters. He is perhaps the leading exponent of the theory that fighting is mostly a matter of style, and he doesn't mean the flamboyant zoot suits some of the pugs wear when they bob through the ropes to take bows. His idea is that the build and ring mannerisms of one fighter make him made to order for some other fighter who perhaps couldn't lick one side of some of the fighters the other fellow can beat every day in the week.

Anyway, getting back to the Dodgers, there must be some reason they can beat the best and get their brains knocked out by the worst, although it certainly isn't style. Maybe they just have champagne appetites and consider anything else beneath their dignity.

They knocked Bucky Walters into the left field bleachers. They landed on Rip Sewell for eight runs in one inning before a man was retired, and they chased Al Javery around the block. Walters and Sewell pitched in the recent all-star game, and Javery was on the squad.

Now this is the more significant because of the fact the Brooks won three out of some 26 games, and those three games with the three all-star starting pitchers were the games they won.

They'd fold like camp stools when facing Luke McGluke or have a swell afternoon hitting into double plays against faltering Philbert, but put them up against the best and they play like world champions. No inferiority complex there.

It's just one of those inexplicable things that make baseball the great game that it is. Bucky Walters, who wouldn't offer an alibi if he was pitching with two broken thumbs and the gout, couldn't explain it after the Dodgers had sent him a'running. They just hit everything he threw, he said, and that was that.

In normal times the accepted theory was that if a player was good enough to be in the majors he was good enough to hit any pitcher on occasion, and when the weakest team hit in clusters it was liable to knock off the strongest. This year, however, some of the major leaguers are where they are only by the grace of fortune circumstance.

Some day someone may come up with a logical reason for these unpredictable performances, but until then the only explanation is that they happen, that's all. The first man up hits, and the fever goes down the batting order like measles.

At any rate, the Dodgers, at the rate they are going, will finish in the pony league, but they have one satisfaction. Right now they are the champions of Bucky Walters, Rip Sewell and Al Javery.

Deadlock Broken In Eighth; Gionts Bested 5 and 4

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Veteran Ed Heusser entered today's deadlocked Cincinnati-New York Giant game in the eighth inning and pitched and batted the Reds to a 5 to 4 triumph.

He allowed only one hit in an inning and a third tenure on the mound and singled to start the Reds' half of the ninth. He scored ultimately on Frank McCormick's long fly. The latter sent the Reds off to a flying start with a three-run homer in the first.

Coaches Dubber Jonnard and Dolph Luque master-minded for the Giants in the absence of Manager Mel Ott, who suffered a severe sprain of his right ankle in last night's game. He will be out of the lineup ten days.

STIDHAM SEES GOOD ELEVEN

Marquette U. Will Play Tough Schedule This Fall

Milwaukee, Wis. — With summer football practice at Marquette university now at the half-way mark, Coach Tom E. Stidham is willing to risk the opinion that he will have a colorful, interesting, fighting aggregation on the field for the 1944 campaign.

In view of the Hilltoppers' ominous schedule, Stidham isn't predicting a winner. But he isn't pessimistic. The big Indian believes that his Marquette eleven will be capable of springing a few surprises this fall and he has been especially pleased with the spirit shown by new men on the squad, both navy V-12 trainees and 17-year old freshmen.

Stidham will conduct summer practice for about three more weeks. Then there will be a respite before the fall training season opens on Saturday, September 2, exactly three weeks before the opening game with the University of Michigan here.

Practice thus far has served to acquaint Stidham and his aides, Backfield Coach Mike Hanley and Line Coach Carl E. (Bus) Owen, with their 1944 talent. Fundamentals have been stressed in the past, but offensive and defensive play will be featured during the remainder of the summer grid sessions. Several scrimmages are promised.

Six lettermen currently form the nucleus for the 1944 fall campaign, but a few other vets were excused from summer drill, mostly for classroom reasons, and are expected to be on hand this fall. Those now in uniform include Halfback Johnny Rudan and Paul Copoulos, Quarterback Bob Lodde, Fullback Bob Teik, Tackle Bob Krebs and Center Marty Silovich.

Overtime Triple In Twelfth Nips Chicago Sox, 2-1

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP)—For the second straight game, Irv Hall, Philadelphia Athletics' second baseman, hit an overtime triple to beat the Chicago White Sox today, the blow coming in the twelfth inning for a 2-1 victory.

Outfielder Hal Epps, who singled in Hall for the winning run in the tenth inning last night, again drove him in with a fly to deep left field to increase the A's lead in the series to four games to one.

First Baseman Hal Trosky of the White Sox doubled in the tying run with two out in the ninth inning after Luke Hamlin had bursed a 1-0 lead over Joe Haynes, Chicago reliever, making his first start of the season. The lead lasted from the second inning when two Sox errors, plus Bill McGee's single and a fly gave the A's an unearned run.

A picked team of players from the Old Timers league will play the L. & L. Escanaba softball league leaders tonight in a benefit game for Bert Goodreau, L. & L. player who received a broken leg in a game several weeks ago. The game tonight will be at No. 2 diamond, starting at 7 p. m.

Two complete teams have been placed on the roster by the Old Timers, who are aiming for a shutout over the L. & L. The Old Timer lineups will include: catchers, Racine, Escanabians, Kuchenberg, C. & N. Wolverines Wear Off Rough Edges In Grid Training

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 29. (AP)—With three more weeks of summer practice remaining for the University of Michigan football squad, Coach H. O. (Fritz) Crisler today admitted that candidates are "wearing off some of the rough edges," but added quickly, "they have a long, long way to go yet."

Lengthy scrimmage sessions under the current five-day-a-week workout schedule have emphasized that Michigan intends to utilize speed and precision, rather than power tactics, to make the most of available material for the season opening here Sept. 16 with Iowa Pre-Flight.

During the past week Crisler has spent considerable time familiarizing his charges with the T-formation, which, though not entirely new to Wolverine fans, is certain to be seen much more often this season when Michigan is on offense.

Though Captain Bob Wiese, the Jamestown, N. D., bruiser, is possessed of a fair share of brute strength and power, passing and finesse appear most logically fitted for Michigan's lighter than usual backfield, best adopted to quick-breaking offensive maneuvers.

Crisler's stress of the T-formation doesn't mean of course that Michigan will abandon its familiar single wingback with the wingman in motion, but rather that the T will be employed more frequently than it has been since Crisler introduced it at Michigan two years ago.

Hot weather drills for the Wolverines will continue until Aug. 19, when a week's respite will precede the intensive practice program leading up to the Western Conference campaign. Michigan shared the 1943 Big Ten title with Purdue.

Lou Boudreau Up To 5th In Batting

Chicago, July 31 (AP)—Belting seven hits in his last 11 trips to the plate, Lou Boudreau of Cleveland raised his batting mark from .299 to .311 and jumped from 10th to fifth place for the week's outstanding work in the closely-contested American league hitting race.

Boston's Bobby Doerr maintained the lead with .332 although falling five points off the bat-beam, while his teammate, Pete Fox, regained second place with a three-point increase to .324. Dick Siebert of Philadelphia dropped from second to third with .320, and a newcomer, Ed Carnett, Chicago White Sox utility rookie, took over fourth place with .312.

Following fifth place Boudreau were Bob Johnson, Boston, and the erstwhile leader, Thurman Tucker of Chicago, each with .309; Chuck Hostetler of Detroit, who fell off 13 points to .305; Roy Cullenbine, Cleveland, and Roberto Estalella, Philadelphia, each with .302, and Oris Hockett, Cleveland, with .300.

The averages were compiled through Sunday's games.

New York's George Stirnweiss blossomed in the specialized category, taking over the base stealing lead from Washington's George Case, 32 thefts to 30; and equaling Doerr's total of runs scored with 74. Doerr kept his lead in hits, with 122, and home runs, with 13. Other leaders also remained unchanged—Cullenbine having the most doubled, 30; Johnny Lindell of New York the most tripled, nine; and Vern Stephens of St. Louis the most runs-batted-in, 67.

Gordon Maltzberger, Chicago's salvage expert, still topped the pitching percentage with .833, having a 10-2 record; while Detroit's Hal Newhouser fanned 10 more batsman to run his leading strikeout total to 98.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Does participation in softball help or hinder an athlete who wants to make good in baseball? This question has been bobbling around the diamonds for a number of years and there continues to be a lot of pros and cons in the arguments. The correct answer appears to lie somewhere between the claims made by diehard baseball enthusiasts and those made by the most rabid softball fans. It is undoubtedly true that the lads in the early 'teen ages and younger can play softball and get their first diamond thrills long before they can do much with a baseball.

* * *

Kiddies playing softball learn the fundamentals of baseball. They learn to catch the ball, to run the bases, the field and to bat. Most important, they develop a love for the diamond. They acquire the competitive spirit that is so much a part of America. Later these kids "graduate" from softball and turn to the more rugged game of baseball. Now the question is: Should these lads with a genuine desire to make good in baseball continue active participation in softball?

* * *

A study of this problem yields the following interesting data: Softball participation helps the infielders but is definitely harmful to the outfielders in baseball and ruins the batting of all baseball players. In the long run then, it is obvious that once a player has 'graduated' to baseball and is serious about making good in the national game, he is retarding his progress in baseball by continued participation in softball.

* * *

The relatively larger size of the softball and the fact that softball diamonds are smaller than regulation baseball diamonds account for the variations in the two games that work to the disadvantage of the baseball player. Outfielders in softball games very often misjudge fly balls when they change to baseball, because the large softball and the speeding baseball do not travel alike in the air. The knack of batting a softball delivered underhand by the pitcher at a relatively short distance from the plate is decidedly different than the technique required for batting a baseball, with its curving motion, delivered overhand or sidearm by a skilled moundsman.

Closely related, however, are the methods of fielding grounders in both softball and baseball. That's why participation in softball actually tends to sharpen the skill of infielders in baseball. The same result would be accomplished, of course, if the baseball infielder substituted more baseball practice for his softball experience. Successful handling of ground balls batted to the infielder is a matter of timing in softball as it is in baseball. The baseball, of course, travels faster, but this factor is offset in softball by the smaller diamond.

Actually, a young man whose goal is a successful career in baseball and who would like to participate in other athletics can find a sport more suitable for him than softball. Golf is one game that would be helpful. Tennis is better because the timing required in tennis is even more exacting than it is in baseball.

BROWNS EXTEND LEAD IN LEAGUE

St. Louis, Aug. 1 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns extended their American league lead to 5½ games tonight—their biggest margin of the season—by defeating the hapless Washington Senators 11 to 6.

It was the eleventh consecutive loss for the Nats and their fourth in a row to the Browns.

The sensational hitting streak of young Al Zarilla was stopped at 11 games when he failed to connect safely in his three official times at bat. He walked once and drove in one run on a fly ball.

Big Jack Jakucki had a one-hit game until Washington exploded with four runs on five blows in the seventh. George Caster finished for the home club.

Score by innings:

St. Louis	102 330 11x	11	13

Uncompleted Tilt Snared By Pirates

Boston, Aug. 1 (AP) — Pittsburgh's Pirates rattled 18 hits all over Braves field today and wound up on the long end of a 12 to 8 score in an incompleted game with the Braves.

By agreement, the game was called to enable the visitors to catch a train.

The contest, which saw the Pirates run wild for six stolen bases, will be finished in September when the Bucs return for their last visit of the season.

Babe Dahlgren was the heavy sticker for the Pirates, poling his eighth home run of the year, a triple and two singles in five trips. He scored once and batted in six runs.

Johnny Barrett of nearby Lowell, aided the Pittsburgh cause with three hits, driving in three runs, and by stealing three bases.

Butch Neiman, Boston left fielder, belted two homers, his 11th and 12 of the season, and drove in five runs.

Boston	000 003 23	8	12

Genial Cotton made his ace on the 131-yard No. 6 hole.

He was playing with Elmer Swanson and Larry Gutreuter of Escanaba, Father Lester Bourgeois of Loretto and Bill Powsen of Iron Mountain.

Leonard was playing in fine fashion getting a 34 and a 36 on the Pine Grove course.

Milwaukee Blanked In No-Hit Contest

Milwaukee, Aug. 1 (AP)—Walter Brown hurled a no-hit, no-run game, the first of the American Association season, here tonight, as Toledo defeated Milwaukee in the seven-inning opener of a doubleheader, 1-0.

Brown walked four, one intentional, and the closest he came to losing his hitless contest came with one out in the last inning when Dick Kimble made a one-handed stab of Bill Norman's liner. It was the first no-hitter at Borchert Field since Dinny Gearin pitched a nine-inning one in 1926 against Columbus.

MONTH STARTS WITH UPSWING

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Recovery was the slogan for today's stock market as steels, motors, rails and selected industrials greeted the new month with fractions to a point or so.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 54.8. The market broadened somewhat, 836 issues appearing. Of these, 446 were up, 195 down and 195 unchanged. Transfers totalled 746,410 shares compared with 578,880 yesterday.

In front were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Graham-Paige, N. Y. Central, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Western Union "A," Public Service of N. J. and General Electric. Standard Steel Spring came to life for an advance of 7-8 at 10 7-8 on announcement of a big axle order.

American Can dropped a point as labor troubles threatened production. Lower also were Texas Co., Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting and Allied Chemical.

Bonds improved. At Chicago wheat was off 3-8 of a cent a bushel to up 1-8. Cotton was 10 to 30 cents a bale higher.

Tilting forward in the curb were Raytheon, Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share, Fansteel and Pittsburgh Plate Glass. Turnover here was 197,595 shares versus 155,105 Monday.

BOND SESSION SLOW

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—In another slow session given over almost entirely to routine trade, the bond market maintained a steady trend by the slimmest of margins today.

Sales of $5,808,600 were a little better than $4,965,200 on Monday, the slowest day of the year. The rails, foreigns and oil-yields in the Associated Press averages emerged with .1 of a point gain each while the industrials and utilities showed no change.

On the plus side at the close were New Haven 4½s, Pacific Gas 3½s, Pennsylvania Railroad 4½s, 'Frisco 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s, American Tobacco 3s and Bethlehem Steel 3½s. Resting easily behind small minus signs were Chicago Great Western 4s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5½s, Commonwealth Edison 3½s and Illinois Central 5s. Commercial MacKay 4s lost 3 at 144. U. S. governments were about unchanged.

Argentine and Australian bonds were higher in an otherwise quiet foreign list.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP)—Wheat and oats futures jiggled back and forth today and closed with little change, while rye showed slightly more strength in a closing rally.

Rapid Allied advances in Europe, and reports that Turkey soon might get in on the side of the United Nations,, were not encouraging to speculators and many remained on the sidelines pending further developments.

Mills were credited with some wheat buying early, and there was some talk of additional flour business for the army. Short covering and shipments of 63 cars from Chicago yesterday boosted rye prices. The heavy shipments indicated to the trade that distillers might be making some purchases for the whisky holiday.

In Memoriam

In sad but loving memory of our beloved son, husband and brother, Albert LaMarch, Jr., who passed away two years ago today, August 2, 1942.

What would we give your hand to clasp,
Your patient face to see.
To hear your voice, to see your smile,
As in days that used to be;
But some sweet day we'll meet again,
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each others hand once more,
In Heaven that happy life.

Sadly missed by:

ANNUAL CAMP HELD AT ZEBA

Ojibway Indians Staging 101st Annual Gathering

L'Anse, Mich.—The 101st annual camp meeting of Upper Peninsula Ojibway Indians and their friends will open Saturday, July 29, at Camp Kewawenon, Zeba Indian reservation, four miles north of L'Anse. Daily sessions will be held until the close of the meeting Sunday evening, August 6.

W. H. Brockway, originally a blacksmith at Fort Brady, Sault Ste. Marie, and the first Methodist Episcopal preacher to develop from the laity, called the first Ojibway camp meeting in the Kewawenon area, on the present site of the Ford plant in Pequaming, in 1843. The meeting grounds were later transferred to Rock Beach at the tip of the Pequaming Peninsula. A large rock mound there marks the site upon which fires were built to guide the Indians who came in their canoes.

When the Pequaming property was purchased by the Ford Motor Company, the Indians acquired the present camp grounds near their community at Zeba. Here they built a tabernacle of Norway pine, with open sides and rustic effect in keeping with the beautiful forest surroundings.

The first permanent Protestant house of worship was built on the east side of Keweenaw Bay in 1840. The bell which calls the Indians to worship was given to the oroginal Methodist congregation by Father Frederick Baraga, missionary, and afterward, Roman Catholic bishop. The present church was built in 1887, and Mrs. Jacob Duggan has been organist and choir leader from 1889 to date.

Rev. John B. Silas and wife will be in charge of daily camp meeting services in the Ojibway language, and several Upper Peninsula pastors will assist in the various sessions. Following the service Friday evening, August 4, several Upper Peninsula citizens will be adopted into the Ojibway Indian nation. The colorful adoption ceremonies will be held out of doors around a big camp fire. The public will be welcome at all services.

OPA TIGHTENS GAS CONTROL

Out-Of-State Movement Of Cars Will Be Checked

Tightening the control of gasoline rations, the Office of Price administration has invoked a new policy designed to check on the inter-state movement of passenger vehicles, it has been announced by the district office.

Effective yesterday, August 1, all OPA representatives, including ration board personnel, who spot an out of state vehicle on the highways will take the license number of that auto, make a note of the make of the machine and will report that information, along with other pertinent data including the location where the vehicle was seen, to the OPA district office. The information then will be forwarded to the local ration board of the motorist in question.

Upon the return of the motorist to his home, he will be called in by his ration board to explain his out of state wanderings and if the explanation fails to satisfy his local board, he may be deprived of further nations.

The Office of Price administration district headquarters in Escanaba explained yesterday that a large percentage of the out of state motorists are travelling on illegal gasoline, secured either on coupons not issued to the motorist or on coupons issued for other purposes.

Since the new policy is being adopted on a nation-wide basis, it is expected to provide an effective means of controlling the illegal travel.

Governors' Conference Is Important To Dewey

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

New York—Starting out on a swing that will conclude with the Governors' conference in St. Louis, Thomas E. Dewey enters on a new phase of his campaign. While the accomplishments of the month that has elapsed since his nomination are not visible to the public, they are nevertheless very real.

Childs

The familiar analogy of the iceberg applies here, it seems to me. What you see above the surface of the water is only about one-tenth of the whole structure. Jaundiced critics would add that the general emotional temperature of the campaign is about that which you'd expect to find in the vicinity of an iceberg, but that is neither here nor there.

Organization Completed

Herbert Brownell Jr., Dewey's campaign manager, has completed the base organization and he is now prepared to move on. It's strictly modern. All old-fashioned encumbrances, such as the traditional "speakers' bureau," infested by party hacks seeking the headlines, have been omitted.

The new organization occupies the entire tenth floor of the Roosevelt—the Theodore Roosevelt—hotel. At the center is Brownell, who looks like a young professor of economics or, perhaps, a statistical genius in one of the big banks. You don't talk to him long, however, before you discover that he knows all the angles in the game of politics, plus some that the old-timers haven't caught onto yet.

Brownell and Dewey are almost of an age. They've been a working team for the past seven or eight years. Together they've charted the course of the campaign in coming weeks.

Old-Timers Missing

The campaign budget is to be heavily weighted on the side of radio. Brownell has assembled for his radio division a group of men and women who are the best in the business. Likewise, the publicity division is staffed with smart experts who know what the score is.

Very few of the old familiar Republican faces are to be found on the tenth floor of the Roosevelt hotel. One of the few exceptions is Miss Marian Martin, who will continue, as a vice chairman, to direct the women's division. She has demonstrated the necessary ability to play on the Dewey-Brownell team.

From all advance indications this will be a campaign—to borrow a term from military strategy—of the calculated risk. Each shot will be fired with an exact knowledge of objectives and hazards.

Dewey will keep as far away as possible from emotional emphasis. He knows this is not his forte, and if he didn't Brownell would tell him. In his speeches he will be the brisk young manager or the fearless prosecutor of the able administrator appealing to his reasonable fellow citizens.

The Dewey staff attaches a great deal of importance to the St. Louis meeting. In a sense it will set the tone for the next phase of the Republican campaign.

The Governors' conference, as the Dewey managers see it, will serve two purposes. On the practical side, Brownell believes that if the 26 governors will work actively for the national ticket, with a real conviction that victory is possible, then more than half the battle will be won.

New Kind of Politics

The governor of a state, with the power of the patronage he controls, wields far more influence than the Republican organization. The ratio of this power—things tend to get down to statistics in Dewey headquarters—is figured at 20 to 1. The intention of the St. Louis meeting is to enlist the 26 in an all-out drive.

Dewey's people do not deceive themselves. They know very well that Governor Warren of California has serious doubts about his state. But they put him down as an exception.

Then, second, they believe that the governors as outstanding leaders in their respective states will make a striking contrast to the "tired new dealers." In each state the public is to be impressed by the fact that the outstanding leader is a Dewey man.

This, as I say, is all being carefully planned out. The young men from Albany are out to show the country a new kind of politics.

IRON ORE PRICE INCREASE URGED

Minnesota Mines Given Better Break By OPA

Michigan iron mining companies have the support of Governor Harry F. Kelly in seeking a better price for their ores. Minnesota operators have fared better at the hands of the OPA than upper peninsula mining men, according to the latter. Franklin G. Pardee, state mining engineer, will represent the Governor before the federal agency in Washington in advancing the case of Michigan operators.

Minnesota iron ore, lying near the surface, can be mined for approximately 70 cents a ton; it costs upwards of $2.40 to bring a ton of ore to the surface from Michigan's deep mines. Despite this advantage possessed by Minnesota operators, it is charged that the OPA has further handicapped Michigan companies by giving Minnesota miners a more advantageous freight rate and by increasing the price of Minnesota ore. Neither benefit has been extended to Michigan companies.

Pardee, with the geological survey division of the conservation department, will point out in Washington that the OPA's alleged failure to lift prices on Michigan iron ores leaves operators without sufficient margin to finance necessary exploratory work in uncovering new ore sources.

State geologists and the U. S. Geological Survey are continuing their efforts to locate shallow ore deposits in the Iron River-Crystal Falls district of the Menominee iron range.

Hospital

The condition of James H. Ladd, who is a medical patient at St. Francis hospital, is improving steadily.

Marilyn Perryman, 940 Stephenson avenue, submitted to an operation for relief from appendicitis, at St. Francis hospital.

Robert Henderson, 1312 Third Avenue South, was admitted to St. Francis hospital as a surgical patient.

Kenneth Ray of Carney submitted to an operation for relief from appendicitis at St. Francis hospital.

Election Meetings Urged By Hartman

Delta County Clerk Theodore Ohlen, returning from a meeting of Michigan county clerks at Petoskey, said that Gus T. Hartman, deputy secretary of state, is urging pre-election instruction meetings for officials who are responsible for the smooth functioning of the election machinery.

Hartman suggested that two instruction meetings be held. The first, about August 15, should be for city and township clerks who would receive instruction on the handling of the Michigan war ballots. The second, about 30 days prior to the November election would be for election inspectors.

The election boards this year will have to compile two totals in a rather complicated election. The regular poll vote will be tallied and then the war ballots will be tallied, the two will then be combined to obtain the totals.

Boy Suffers Leg Fracture In Fall

Wayne Kirkpatrick, 11-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkpatrick, 216 North Fourteenth street, suffered a fracture of the left leg, above the knee, when he fell while playing on a pile of logs, about 8:30 o'clock Monday evening. The boy was taken to St. Francis hospital where the fracture was reduced, and later was removed to his home.
